Tri-pulley is almost 3 years old. We definitely got to this stage thanks to grants and donors, big and small, to partners, to communities we worked with and to a great team we rely on, but most importantly, we grew because Tri-pulley is in a continual learning and development process.

We do things because they add value to the bottom line; we continuously review our work to check if there is a better way to approach a matter; we seek feedback from others to improve and grow.

It was hard to choose the best of 2022, keeping in mind that all of this happened in the midst of continual crisis with a team of 10 members, mostly part-timers, but we enjoyed every moment of wrapping it up...we hope you enjoy it too and waiting for your feedback, good or bad!

We have become part of a trusted network in Beirut and Tripoli. The team members attended several networking events where businesses and NGOs we did not know of approached us for advices or future collaboration. For many of the skilled individuals and businesses we supported, Tri-pulley has become a reference for them, be it in their careers or in helping them find qualified staff to join their workforce. A sign of trust established only through transparency and on time feedback.

Testimonials Donors & Partners

Few words can summarize Hilfswerk International experience with Tri-pulley initiative: reliable, responsible and trustworthy. Hilfswerk International was attracted by the innovative approach of Tri-pulley and our partnership started since 2020. The impact of the intervention is worth mentioning: spreading positivity and giving hope, it is indeed a life changing experience.

-Mireille Karaki, Country Manager

make sense It's a pleasure for us to support Tri-pulley, and honestly, we are often impressed by the high of your work! It's just lovely to work with you, and I also felt the good vibe from you team, as you manage to recruit individuals with outstanding values and diverse profile, collaborating for a higher purpose. Thanks again for all the great work!

-Céline Caudron, Country Manager

The collaboration between Tri-pulley and UPT has been exemplary in seeing how institutions and small non-profit enterprises can collaborate to make a remarkable societal change. During the Social Justice Incubation Program, which encourages collaborative initiatives that enhance social justice, Tri-pulley and Université pour Tous have portrayed excellent work together towards a more inclusive Lebanon for marginalized groups especially people with special abilities. It's a pleasure working with such a devoted and structured team, and we can't wait to see their continued impact on work places, individuals' lives and societies as a whole.

-Aisha Habli, Program Manager

I want to thank you for the support you are giving our students. I am touched and confident now that we are not alone in our struggle for better human dignity and that the chain of support is being put rapidly in place. Thank you for everything you are doing, we are very happy with this collaboration and we really appreciate your commitment, seriousness at work and professionalism”.

-Gérard Bejjany, UPT Director

I am particularly impressed with the Tri-pulley team's dedication, hard work and commitment ...They have been instrumental in the success of our partnership and have helped us to achieve our goals....I am proud to have partnered with you .... Your efforts have helped many individuals and families to acquire new skills and generate income, and your services and programs have been of great benefit to many.

-Jihane Balsheh, Project Manager

Thank you for your detailed feedback and it is a pleasure to see all this progress. Looking forward to carrying up the ladder together towards Disability Inclusion.

-Arcenciel Recruitment Office

I was glad to be supportive of the Tri-pulley initiative through the past couple of years. The enthusiasm the team showed and their encouragement to support their community was really inspiring. I wish the best for them, and I hope to see more similar efforts in the community.

-Shafik Abdelrahman, Programs Manager

Integrating Tri-Pulley into our social enterprises experiences in Tripoli has brought a completely different layer to our visits, allowing us to show in a concrete manner the importance and impact of well thought initiatives to cater to the needs of marginalized and disenfranchised people, offering visitors, a glimpse into the daily lives of real people.

-Nada Raphael and Joelle Sfeir, Co-founders

Tri-pulley supporting Rumman music and cultural center with employees is highly appreciated especially at a time when culture is neglected and not deemed as a priority.

Diaspora Team

Tri-pulley is the source of positive vibes in our daily life. Knowing that all of these success stories are happening right now, in the darkest period of Lebanon, is very heartwarming for us as Lebanese diaspora. This initiative strengthens our sense of belonging to this small fragile country. Being part of this initiative rekindles hope in us, because it comes from the Lebanese, for the Lebanese! We love receiving the messages on the diaspora messaging group and knowing first-hand about the impact and ways we can help with our expertise. We love supporting Tri-pulley because we feel we are investing in building Lebanon talents rather than just financing non-sustainable charitable means that we are often forced into as diaspora. This project allowed us to believe that we've been trained to solve problems and create solutions, believe in human potential to create opportunities in the midst of crisis, believe that we are not powerless, that we are not forever victims.

The diaspora rally paper shows that tremendous work was poured into making this event and helped us see different ways in contributing as Lebanese expats. Despite the different countries and time Zones, it was beautifully orchestrated and managed. The rally brought us so much emotions, nostalgia and fun and connected us a bit more to Lebanon! It was amazing seeing how everyone got involved, in Lebanon and abroad, how many things we've learned about the country, how amusing it was to actually play a game again with friends after so many years....

Bank crisis, 1000 fluctuating exchange rates, power outage, water shortage, covid-19, cholera, lack of medication, road blocks, stray bullets, gunshots, skyrocketing prices yet our team maintained their commitment, follow up with our community and relentless efforts in carrying out impactful and quality work.

Through the transparency, continuous feedback, and sharing of lessons learned, they have established trusting relationships with our partners and main actors and allowed Tri-pulley to become a reference in several areas. To work on their self-development and to ensure their ongoing involvement in Tri-pulley's growth, a topic was chosen and tackled in each monthly meeting where the team participated in Tri-pulley's sustainability plans, verified their alignment, shared successes and failures and decided on small fixes that improved the bottom line of our work.

Thank you to each one of you for your continuous commitment and dedication, without you Tri-pulley wouldn't have been Tri-pulley, and our team meetings wouldn't have been so enriching!

-Lamy & Nadine Co-founders

It was challenging for me to hold meetings alone while there were problems that had to be solved instantly. I was happy that I was able to find solutions to the misunderstandings that were occurring. I practiced my negotiation and problem-solving skills while being assertive as per the managers' advice. In addition to breaking the fear of challenges, we showed our partners that the team is trusted by the management who does not need to be present all the time, that delegation is important and that the team can take decisions, something we want to lead by example to encourage less "One Person show" leaderships.

According to WHO over 1.5 billion people globally live with hearing loss! We invest so much in learning foreign languages which are an added value on our resumes, yet we miss on one that can reach such a huge number of people and should also open up job opportunities! When we matched Nour with Atelier Hartouka, we wanted to find a business that welcomes Nour to benefit from her artistic talent while she also learns new skills... Little did we know that the support of Nour will end with her launching "Mariposa", her own brand featured on bags and pouches.

Online and work from home services for people with disability could be temporary solutions to accessibility and transportation issues. Many of our matches with disabilities are doing their work remotely, such as translation, data entry, editing, and english teaching!

I thought I would be helping Nour, but it is actually Nour who is helping me. Having Nour with us reminded me of the importance of transparency, honesty, not taking things for granted and being excited to go to work

-Live Love Recycle employee

How can we as consumers contribute to job inclusion? Simply by making inclusive businesses a competitive advantage and a criterion in the selection! At Tri-pulley, we make our procurement decisions based on ethics and social impact rather than just price. Abdelrahim systematically asks, among other issues, “Do you employ someone with a disability?” when requesting a quotation, the question alone is a small wake up call...imagine if we all did this? High five to all the businesses that are doing the adaptation needed and welcoming on board people with disabilities! Sometimes it is just a matter of dividing difficult tasks into mini doable ones,...

We love the multiplier effect of those matches:

1 person with disability employed = parents over the moon = happier family = more inclusive businesses & society!

When you shop or go for dinner make sure to choose inclusive businesses!

Many NGOs and initiatives are active in Conflict Prevention through working with children, ex-detainees, youth, women and drug addicts and have conducted countless activities and projects. Yet, we still witness violence, daily shootings, lives lost due to stray bullets and people leaving the country to fight with extremist groups. In the absence of a country-level strategic plan, we are all doing bits and pieces of what we think can be an added value.

In August, with the participation of 15 NGOs, municipal and educational entities and over 40 attendees, we held an online event as the second part of the "Let's Talk About Failure" series to share and discuss the work that Tri-pulley did in conflict prevention, what worked, what failed and lessons learnt.

After waiting 20 years to gain experience in the educational field, a holder of a Masters Degree in Education with a hearing impairment began working at a private school. She told us that she finally has a purpose in life and feels for once productive and able to take back ownership of her destiny.

"It's been so long since I did any work, I feel I am slow but I am making efforts to give a good impression to the school."

Thank you for coming through for me, many others promised me and they bailed out. That's what's pushing me to wake up and go to work."

Success Stories

After being stuck in the mourning period following her son's death, a veteran school teacher, through delivering literacy classes to women, finally started showing some improvement, by leaving the house, interacting with people, and visiting her son's cemetery less frequently. She is now ready to go back to the labor market. "Thank you for your trust, you gave a meaning to my life. This period made me what I am now and helped me regain my self-confidence and believe in myself"

After recovering from cancer, she needed a transitional phase to slowly re-enter the job market. Tri-pulley was the perfect place for her to regain confidence and have the flexibility to work at her own pace while focusing on her health!

Check out what happened on this plane!

18 teams with 100 Lebanese spread around 12 countries boarded Trip-pulley airlines to participate in our rally paper spreading awareness on the difficult conditions in Lebanon, creating connections between Lebanese people in and outside the country, and letting more people know about Tri-pulley and its mission to create job opportunities for a social cause.

Failures

A child drawing the violent environment (gunshots) he wants to change in his neighborhood

While working in hostile environments where death, violence and drugs are an everyday reality, we have failed to provide long lasting impact with such matches within our 6 month model.

We did stretch out our coaching and support to one person for 2 years and it is leading to beautiful behavioural changes; however this demanded a dedicated team member and personal efforts that most NGOs and programs cannot afford. We therefore, decided to extend our efforts to working also with children, making them more resilient to violence and hopefully less likely to resort to it.

Although we have been blessed with many private donors who have contributed to the growth of Tri-pulley, we were stuck within the same circle, especially of donors from the Lebanese diaspora.

With the never-ending crises in the country, the diaspora are not always able to maintain the same level of donations as they too have loved ones to take care of in Lebanon.

With the new fundraising techniques implemented in Q3, we started reaching out to new people, outside and inside the country.

Sustainability

Monitoring and Evaluation

Moving from a checklist to a full questionnaire to evaluate the work quantitatively and qualitatively throughout the different stages

Concept Notes

Concept notes of Tri-pulley finalized in 3 languages in a simple way that our network can share with their connections, in addition to Concept Notes by sector to apply to grants.

What's next?

Focus on civic engagement and the collapsing sector of Education to contribute in raising a literate and well informed generation in the country.

Advocacy for Job inclusion of people with disabilities as an added value in the workplace and incorporating inclusive practices within businesses.

Continue working on the topic of unsafe migration.

Finalize the registration (pray with us!) and have a dedicated bank account to Tri-pulley.

Launching of a new "homemade" website in the first half of 2023.

What's next?

Focusing on creative, cultural and environment-friendly fundraising activities such as:

Regular Movie screenings in Beirut and later on in other cities across the world. Movies with a social cause aligned with our model

Working on the ideas launched in 2022, the tote bags and the e-cards, and promoting them as Gifts of Choice for socially responsible gift ideas.

Outdoor Game in Tripoli - similar to Escape Room concept- that can be played by groups to explore the city and its richness

“Jobs for a social cause” board games to raise awareness on the difficulties of finding a job in Lebanon and on the impact of Tri-pulley model
